

Threat Assessment and Management Consulting

Part of Integrated Systems on-going security approach to protect communities.

What is Threat Assessment and Management (TAM) Consulting?

The TAM training program educates stakeholders on assessment, intervention, and case management concepts when it comes to concerns that an individual is at risk for a targeted violence attack. The training emphasizes an integrated team approach to prevent acts of violence occurring in the given organization or workplace. TAM, as an accepted preventative approach to targeted violence, has seen significant growth over the past 30 years. TAM philosophies and protocols have been endorsed by agencies such as the United States Secret Service, the United States Department of Education, the National Association of Attorney Generals, the National Association of Threat Assessment Professionals, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and the United States Department of Justice.

What are some elements of TAM consulting?

- A comprehensive understanding of the fundamentals of workplace threat assessment and management
- Recognizing and identifying inhibitors to targeted violence
- Recognizing mental health coping mechanisms and risk factors
- Discussions of the impact the internet and social media has
- Legal Considerations: HIPPA, FERPA, and civil liberties
- Pairs well with physical security offerings to make environments safer
- and much more...
